	Questions	School Response
1	How does St Francis' School know if children need extra help and what should I do if I think my child may have special educational needs?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • We have rigorous monitoring in place that tracks the progress our children make in all areas of the curriculum. Teachers meet with the Inclusion Manager termly to monitor and identify further support their children may need • Our staff are vigilant at supporting and raising any concerns. All concerns are taken to the Inclusion Manager who investigates further and plans additional support as necessary. • We use data and other forms of assessment to identify the need for additional support and to celebrate achievement. • Parents/carers are encouraged to speak to the class teacher about any concerns they have, alternatively they can speak to our Inclusion Manager who has gained the Masters-level National Award for Special Educational Needs Co-ordination. • Assessments are also provided by our Multi Agency Team of Educational Psychologists and other education and health experts who work with the teachers to identify children's specific needs.
2	How will St Francis' School support my child?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • When concerns are raised about a pupil's ability to make expected progress a meeting will be arranged to discuss the child's needs. • The pupil, parents, Class Teacher and Inclusion Manager will work together to create a plan of support for the Special Educational Needs identified. This will detail what sort of provision is in place, what outcome is expected, who is providing it and for how long. • Our school Provision Map shows the range of interventions in place in our school which will be used where we identify children who will benefit from them. • All interventions put in place are monitored to assess their impact against expected rate of progress. If an intervention is not effective, we are quick to respond and find alternatives while engaging in dialogue with the learner and their family. All our additional support programmes are overseen by the Inclusion Manager. • All teachers engage in inclusive teaching methods and are competent at supporting pupils with special educational needs. • Our governors play an active role in monitoring the quality of our special educational needs provision, as does the Head Teacher and the Senior Leadership Team.

In addition, there are a number of opportunities where parents/carers can meet with staff to discuss children's progress both formally and informally. We hold parent's evenings twice a year where parents are invited to view their children's work. These meetings enable us to share what can be done at home to support the learning in school. Staff can be available at the end of the day for brief conversations and appointments can be arranged if required. A full report is written on each child at the end of the school year. • All children have a home/school contact book which should be used to pass messages to the class teacher. This is also reinforced by generic updates on the curriculum which we share through our newsletter and the School Website. Should more regular contact be required, staff will make suitable arrangements to ensure this is put in place.
